Discover an interactive workshop available in English, French, and German. It takes place where you want, is tailored to your needs, and guarantees fast results.

Have YOU ever been obliged to make an international telephone call for work? Maybe you've already been at a business dinner and the foreigner sitting right next to you started a friendly conversation? Or perhaps you are one of the many professionals who have to speak another language at meetings, in order to keep climbing the career ladder?

If your answer is “yes”, then our Business Conversation Classes will allow you to transform your ability to successfully exchange information with other professionals in English, French, and German. Whether you simply want to improve your prowess or revise the basics, only practice makes perfect. The workshop sessions can be held in a first-class business location near you, in your offices and even at your home.

International Presentation Services (IPS) has developed two types of classes to transform your nervousness into confidence:

- individual training - face-to-face, phone or Skype
- group training - face-to-face

Whichever one you choose, the main ingredients both workshops share are professionally presented content, lots of interactivity and fun. As a guaranteed result, by practicing with us your conversation skills will get to international standard and boost your professional standing. Consequently, those who are nervous about making conversation in another language today will start to really enjoy it tomorrow.
